This session provides information related to the use of higher-level questioning techniques. To complete the session, please use the links below to access each section of the training in order. There are two assignments. One is to create your own questions using the Bloom's Taxonomy as described in the mini-lecture and in the article "Moving Beyond Who, What, When, and Where." The second is a short quiz that you will complete at the end of the session. Once both assignments are completed, you will receive a certificate of completion and two hours of credit will be assigned in ECE-TRIS.
